4. Customers with characteristics of vulnerability

The Product is designed for the market segment defined above, which is likely to include some customers with characteristics of vulnerability or who will experience vulnerability over time.

We considered the needs, characteristics, and objectives of customers with characteristics of vulnerability at all stages of the design process for this Product to ensure the Product meets their needs.

Specifically, for this product we have noted:

- Where an applicant takes a discounted product, they may be more susceptible to the challenges of a higher reversionary rate and payment once the initial product term expires.
- Where an applicant takes a product with a significant discount, they may be displaying signs of vulnerability insofar as they may be unable to finance higher monthly payments.
- Where an applicant takes a product with an initial tie-in period to obtain a discounted pay rate, they are exposing themselves to the risk of having to pay an early repayment charge should, for any reason, they need to repay the mortgage in full before the end of the initial tie-in period.
- Remortgaging with additional capital raising may be indicative of issues managing outgoings or debt. The desire to release capital to service debt or everyday expenditure may lead to harms around choice of product and erosion of equity.

We have not identified any particular areas of vulnerability within the market segments the product has been designed to serve, but have considered whether the pricing structure and design would mean that any customer with aspects of vulnerability are less likely to receive fair value.

We have also tested the Product to assess whether it will meet the identified needs, characteristics, and objectives of the target market, including customers in the target market who have characteristics of vulnerability.

We have in place a framework to achieve good outcomes for vulnerable customers, which includes:

- Education and training for our staff to ensure they have the appropriate skills and experience to recognise and respond to the needs of vulnerable customers.
- Suitable customer service provision and communications.
- Flexible policies, where appropriate, to support vulnerable members.
- Monitoring to ensure we continue to meet and respond to the needs of customers with characteristics of vulnerability.

Intermediaries should continue to comply with your obligations to ensure that you treat customers in vulnerable circumstances fairly.

Please contact us if you need any further information about how we support the needs of all our customers in relation to the Product.

5. Our assessment of value

We have developed a comprehensive and robust assessment process which evaluates several aspects of our business to determine the value of our mortgage product. This analysis is used to ascertain whether the Product delivers fair value for customers.

The outcomes of the assessment process are presented to the Product Development Committee, allowing for challenge and further investigation before we sign-off the outcomes and share the summary of our assessment with you.

Our fair value assessment has considered the following:

Benefits	Price	Costs	Limitations
The range of features that the Product provides, the quality of the Product, the level of customer service that is provided and any other features that the Product may offer.	The interest rates, fees and charges customers pay for the Product, comparable market rates, advice fees paid to intermediaries and non-financial costs associated with operating the Product	The cost of funding the Product and any other reductions in costs to the customer made possible by economies of scale.	Any limitations on the scope and service we provide or the features of the Product.

Results of our assessment

Our assessment concluded that this Product continues to deliver fair value for customers in the target market for the Product.
